Former DOE Under Secretary for Science, Paul Dabbar, Joins ClearPath Advisory Board

Washington, DC – Thursday, February 4, 2021 – ClearPath announced Paul Dabbar, former Department of Energy (DOE) Under Secretary for Science, has joined its Advisory Board. Paul Dabbar is currently Chairman and CEO of Bohr Quantum Technologies, where he is developing and deploying technologies for the emerging quantum internet.

“Paul Dabbar has one of the sharpest minds when it comes to clean energy innovation, and it’s a real honor to have him join our existing team of great advisors,” said Rich Powell, Executive Director of ClearPath. “Throughout his tenure at DOE, he brought fresh thinking to our outstanding national lab system, facilitating private-sector partnership agreements and reducing barriers to commercializing technologies coming out of the labs.”

The Honorable Paul M. Dabbar served as DOE’s fourth Under Secretary for Science, as well as directly managing a majority of the Department’s world-class national labs, where he led technology commercialization efforts. He also served as the principal advisor on fundamental energy research, energy technologies, science, and commercialization of technologies.
