ClearPath Welcomes New Head of Policy

Washington, DC – Tuesday, December 10, 2024 – ClearPath announced Lisa Epifani, former Head of Government Affairs and Public Policy Google’s innovation division called, X, The Moonshot Factory, and Chevron alum has joined its team as the Head of Policy.

“Lisa’s 20-plus years of extensive experience in government affairs and public policy makes her a perfect fit to lead our team on the intersection of energy policy, clean tech, and commercialization,” said Jeremy Harrell, Chief Executive Officer of ClearPath. “Our policy team works hard in successfully driving our mission across D.C. Her leadership will bolster these efforts and advance the organization’s vision going forward.”

In this role, Epifani will lead ClearPath’s policy team, focusing on developing innovative solutions across a portfolio of clean energy and clean manufacturing technologies.

Before joining ClearPath, Epifani served in various positions in the public and private sector. She served as an Assistant Secretary at the U.S. Department of Energy under President George W. Bush. She also served as a Special Assistant on the National Economic Council at the Bush White House and as Counsel on the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee under then Chair Pete Domenici (R-NM). In addition to working at Google, Epifani led Chevron’s Legislative and Regulatory Affairs team and worked with Chevron’s investors on clean energy issues. She was also a partner at Van Ness Feldman, an energy law firm in DC.

Epifani holds a Juris Doctor from the Yale Law School and a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Texas at Austin.
